

Richard Barton
CEO, Asia ex-Japan

Richard is based in Hong Kong having previously been Chief Executive of Gavin Anderson's office in Singapore. He moved to Asia from the firm's London office in early 2000. His specialist areas are corporate, crisis and financial communications.

His corporate communications experience for financial and professional services firms is extensive, having run numerous programs for investment banks, fund management firms, private equity houses, law firms and management consultants.

Over the past seventeen years his financial communications experience includes advising dozens of listed companies on media and investor relations issues, numerous contested corporate situations, crises, M&A transactions, restructurings and capital markets fund-raising across both Asia and Europe. His experience includes advising on the first ever contested takeover of a Chinese company, on Korea's largest corporate governance battle, on Asia's largest ever non-privatisation IPO, as well as on numerous private equity investments and debt restructurings.

Richard started his career as an associate in County NatWest's corporate finance department in London and holds a BA (Hons) in Politics & Economics from University of Durham, UK.
